Letter from the Director, Dr. Brad Townsend

Hello Pitt Band Alumni!

As my first year at Pitt comes to a close I'd like to thank every one of you who welcomed me and thank you for all of your support of the Pitt Band. It has been a great first year and I am already looking forward to even better things to come.

Many of you know I spent the last 11 years as Director of Athletic Bands at Oregon State University. I grew up in Somerset, PA and the first college band I ever saw was the Pitt Band when my high school came to Pitt Band Day in the late 70s. All it took was seeing the band come crashing out of the tunnel in old Pitt Stadium and I was hooked! All these years later that experience and the tradition of the Pitt Band drew me to this position.

I was also drawn to Pitt based on the support of the University and Athletic Department. As many of you know, Pitt's move to the ACC has brought a lot of great things to the Pitt Band this year. Not only did we get new uniforms, drums, color guard flags, a sound system and more travel opportunities, we also were able to hire a full time Assistant Director, Matthew Alosi. We are looking forward to a lot of great things this coming year including a brand new set of trumpets.

As you well know the students of the Pitt Band are tremendous and their dedication to the band is inspiring. But I'd also like to publically thank the Pitt Band staff for all of their hard work, support and for making both Matt and I feel welcome. It is a very talented and special group who cares deeply about the band and always strives to get better.

Finally, I'd be remiss if I did not publically thank Jack R. Anderson as well. I have known Jack since my time at Temple University and although it has been daunting stepping into his shoes, he has made it easy and comfortable. I admire what he has built with you all and promise to work as hard as I can to keep this band growing and getting even better!

I hope you enjoy your summer and that we will see you at pregame concerts and games in the fall, as well as at Alumni Band Day for the Homecoming football game on October 25 with Georgia Tech. If you have any questions do not hesitate to contact me at btownsend@athletics.pitt.edu.

Hail to Pitt!

Brad Townsend
