Director's Corner

Greetings from the University of Pittsburgh Bands!

We are having an outstanding year here with many positive things going on. In case you have not heard from Lou Rusiski already, Athletic Director Jeff Long has made an announcement regarding the new Band Complex. Please keep your eyes and ears open as we will need support from our alumni and friends for this massive project.

Band camp is coming up soon. As always, alumni are welcome to stop by from August 21 through 24 at the University of Pittsburgh's Bradford Campus. Recruiting is going extremely well and promises to give us another great complement of students. Throughout the year, please feel free to visit us on Friday nights from 6 pm to 8 pm before home games to watch the Varsity Band practice. We would love to have you stop by and chat with the students following those rehearsals.

Finally, stop by for our Panther Prowl, Pregame Concert and March to Victory starting 2 hours before kickoff at each home game.

Thank you for your continuous support of the University of Pittsburgh and our band program.

Hail to Pitt!

Jack R. Anderson
Director of Bands

2003 PBAC Scholarship

Each year the PBAC awards a $3000 tuition scholarship to a bandsperson entering his or her sophomore year. Your donations pay for the first $1000, which is matched for the following two years by the University. Additionally, two Frank Bolden Memorial Book Grants are given each year. The winners were announced at band camp in August.

The 2003 winner of the tuition scholarship is Andrew Levin. Andrew marched in the trumpet section during the football season including herald trumpets. He hails from Derwood, Maryland, where his dad is a high school band director. Majoring in neuroscience (with an eye toward medical school), Andrew also sat first trumpet in the Pitt Symphonic Band and in the National Intercollegiate Band last summer.

Bolden Memorial Grants went to James Cavello (alto saxophone) and Jeffrey Knox (trombone). Jim and Jeff had fine freshman years in the VMB and continue their commitment, teamwork and pride in our band programs.

On behalf of our students we thank all band alumni who make yearly contributions to the PBAC scholarship fund.

Continuous Outstanding Service

At the Pitt Symphonic Band's Chancellor's Concert this April, the PBAC recognized an alumnus whose contributions to the Pitt Band have been invaluable. Anyone who's visited the band in its home or on the road undoubtedly has been struck by his wit, has been captivated by his charm, and has cringed at his horrendous jokes.

Lou Rusiski (ENGR '71) marched bass drum in the Pitt Band from 1968 to 1971. He now serves as the General Operations Director for the band, or as he prefers: Textiles and Transportation. Every aspect of the band has his hand in it, from uniforms to field props to transporting equipment from Oakland to Heinz Field. Ever notice those large equipment boxes the operations staff push around? Those are a Louie special. For all he does, we recognized Lou with the 2004 Continuous Outstanding Service Award. Thanks Louie!

Pitt Band Scholar Update: She's One of Us Now

On April 24, 2004, Abigail Roule, the 2000 Pitt Band Scholarship recipient, graduated from the School of Arts and Sciences with a double major in Spanish and rhetoric and communication. She starts at NYU this fall, pursuing a master's in bilingual elementary education.

In addition to serving as a trumpet section leader, Abby took full advantage of the college experience, including some study abroad. Following is an excerpt of a testimonial written by Abby published in the Council on International Educational Exchange's brochure:

“ ‘Make sure you don't get lost!’

“Those words spoken by my Spanish host mother rang in my head as I got off the bus at the Spanish Red Cross Building. Enrique, the band director, met me and said, ‘So, you play the trumpet?’ It was settled. I was going to play the trumpet for the Band de Música de la Cruz Roja, Sevilla. Of course, that first conversation was the simplest part of the band experience. There were adventures every week in attempting to understand what songs we were playing. All the music seemed to run together, but at the same time, everyone in the band seemed to noticed that I wasn't doing half bad for an American.

“Learning the musical terms was an adventure. For some reason no one teaches you what a fliscorno (mellophone), tromba (French horn), or flautin (piccolo) is in Spanish class. And I must have missed the day when we learned the verb finar (to tune) or ensayar (to practice).

“At any rate, I eventually realized that if I got to the Red Cross an hour or so before the concert, I could get coffee with some of the people in the band and catch a ride to where we had to be. As I learned how the songs were supposed to sound, I also learned that the people in the band were just like the people in my band at home. I realized that I had found a family in the band. The experience of the concerts and Semana Santa was invaluable. I cannot describe the saetas sung from balconies, the rose petals thrown on the virgins, or the dark church of Los Gitanos lit with candles. La Banda de Música de la Cruz Roja has allowed me to not only study, but to live in Seville. I am certain that my trumpet was the best thing I put in my suitcase, and that the music of Semana Santa will be my favorite souvenir.”
